                                              The invention describes an isolated sodium channel subunit hHlb polypeptide (I) comprising a fully defined 2015 amino acid sequence as given in the specification optionally, carrying a conservative substitution, deletion or rearrangement at one or more non-critical amino acid position. Detecting the presence of the hHlb SCN5A gene is useful for determining if a (non-)human subject is at risk for Long QT syndrome. Agents screened that increase or decrease sodium channel activity are useful for treating cardiac arrhythmia and other sodium channel related heart disorders. This is the amino acid sequence of human Nav1.5 doalum channel alpha subunit SCN5A.

Claim 14; SEQ ID NO 6; 111pp; English

The present sequence represents a variant of the human cardiac sodium channel alpha subunit designated SCNSA (sodium voltage-gated channel, type V, alpha) protein. The present invention describes an isolated computed to the polynucleotide encoding an SCNSA polypeptide where the polynucleotide is selected from the group: (1) a first polynucleotide that encodes an SCNSA colypeptide selected from the group consisting of: (1) a histidine, threonine, leucine, arginine and glutamine at amino acid positions 558, 559, 618, 1027 and 1077, respectively; (ii) an arginine, threonine, leucine and glutamine at amino acid positions 558, 559, 618, and 1027, respectively; (iii) a histidine, threonine, leucine and computed at amino acid position 558, 559, 618, and 1027, respectively, (iii) a histidine, threonine, leucine and computed at amino acid position 1077 deleted; (2) a second polynucleotide that is at least 80 to dentical to the first polynucleotide over the entire length of the first polynucleotide over the polynucleotide over the first second or third polynucleotide over the comprising the polynucleotide; (3) an isolated that is a complement of the first, second or third polynucleotide over the polynucleotide; (3) an isolated over the activity of a sodium channel; (6) identifying an agent that can alter the activity of

The novel SCNSA gene comprises the mutation G292S between the fifth and sixth membrane passing-through subunits of the first domain; and/or the mutation S335L of the intracellular loop between the fourth and fifth membrane passing-through subunits of the second domain. The novel SCNSA gene can be used as a Brugada syndrome marker, for diagnosing Brugada syndrome causes idiopathic ventricular fibrillation, thus the gene/marker allow for the prevention or treatment of the syndrome. New nucleic acid encoding sodium voltage-gated channel, type V, alpha polypeptide variants, useful for studying mutations, and designing or identifying new diagnostics and treatment strategies or agents for sodium channel related diseases.

CC type V, alpha subunit designated Scham (Continual Voltage Vales) grotes in. The present invention describes an isolated accepted from the group: (1) a first polypucleotide that encodes an SCNSA CD polypeptide selected from the group consisting of: (i) a histidine, CC polypeptide selected from the group consisting of: (i) a histidine, CC polypeptide selected from the group consisting of: (i) a histidine, SSS, CC 559, 618, 1027 and 1077, respectively; (ii) an arginine, threonine, cc leucine, arginine and glutamine at amino acid positions 558, CC 1027 and 1077, respectively, (iii) a histidine, threonine, leucine and glutamine at amino acid positions 558, SSS, 618 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid positions 558, SSS, 618 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid positions 558, CSS, 618 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid positions 558, CSS, 618 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid positions acid position 1077 deleted; (2) a second polymucleotide that is at least 80 % CSSS, 618 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid positions acid position 1077 deleted; (3) a third polymucleotide over the entire length of the first CSSA, CSS, 618, and (4) a conservative substitution, deletion or rearrangement CSS, 618, cc polypeptides with a conservative substitution, deletion or rearrangement CSS, 618, cc polymucleotide that is a complement of the first, second or third CSSSA, cc polymucleotide over mortal amino acid position; and (4) a fourth CSSSA, cc polymucleotide encoded by the polymucleotide; (4) an antibody that can cSS, 618, cc polymucleotide; (6) and contife; (7) an isolated CSS, 618, cc polymucleotide; (8) a sodium channel; (8) identifying an agent that can cSSSA, cc polymucleotide; (8) and contifer a mutation on a sodium channel is associated with a disease; and (9) determining whether a human cc contains the polypeptide; (8) determining whether a human contains of identifying an agent that can contains of identifying and contains and contains of identifying and contains and contains of channel alpha sequence represents a variant of the human cardiac ha subunit designated SCN5A (sodium voltage-gated ch channel,

The novel SCN5A gene comprises the mutation G292S between the fifth and sixth membrane passing-through subunits of the first domain; and/or the mutation 8351L of the intracellular loop between the fourth and fifth membrane passing-through subunits of the second domain. The novel SCN5A gene can be used as a Brugada syndrome marker, for diagnosing Brugada syndrome. Brugada syndrome causes idiopathic ventricular fibrillation, thus the gene/marker allow for the prevention or treatment of the syndrome. This sequence represents the S835L mutant protein of the human SCN5A gene of the invention.

The invention relates to an novel SCNSA gene of a sodium channel alpha subunit. The novel SCNSA gene comprises the mutation G292S between the fifth and sixth membrane passing-through subunits of the first domain; and/or the mutation S855L of the intracellular loop between the fourth and fifth membrane passing-through subunits of the second domain. The novel SCNSA gene can be used as a Brugada syndrome marker, for diagnosing Brugada syndrome. Brugada syndrome causes idiopathic ventricular fibrillation, thus the gene/marker allow for the prevention or treatment Contained alpha submit designated Schap (Schalm voltage gared course), alpha protein. The present invention describes an isolated complynucleotide from the group: (1) a first polynucleotide that encodes an SCNSA CC polypeptide selected from the group consisting of: (i) a histidine, continue, arginine and glutamine at amino acid positions 558, CSSA CSSA (1027 and 1077, respectively; (ii) an arginine, threonine, threonine, arginine and glutamine at amino acid positions 558, CSSA (1027 and 1077, respectively; (iii) an arginine, threonine, leucine and glutamine at amino acid positions 558, SSS, 618, CC (1027 and 1077, respectively; (iii) an histidine, threonine, leucine and cc arginine at amino acid positions 558, 559, 618 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid positions 558, SSS, 618, CC (1027 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid at amino acid gosition 1077 deleted; (2) a second polynucleotide that is at least 80 % CC (1027 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid at amino acid gosition 1077 deleted; (3) a third polynucleotide that is at least 80 % CC (1027 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid at amino acid gosition 1077 deleted; (2) a second polynucleotide that is at least 80 % CC (1027 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid at amino acid gosition and (2021 at the first polynucleotide over the entire length of the first polynucleotide that is at least 80 % CC (1027 and 1027, respectively, with the amino acid at amino acid position; and (4) a fourth CC polynucleotide that is a compensative substitution, deletion or rearrangement CC polynucleotide that is a compensative substitution, deletion or rearrangement CC polynucleotide that is a compensation of the first, second or third CC polynucleotide and the polynucleotide; (3) an antibody that can compensation of a sodium channel; (6) identifying an agent that can compensation of a sodium channel; (6) identifying an agent that can compensation derived from the biological sample compensation derived from the biological sample compensation of channel alpha (type V, alpha) sequence represents subunit represents a variant of the human cardiac designated SCN5A (sodium voltage-gated cl channel,

Also described are: a method of assessing a risk for SIDS in a human individual; a method of identifying a human carrier of a marker for SIDS; a kit, for testing a human infant or fetus for a marker, comparising: at least one reagent for identifying an amino acid at a position corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 2 is Y/Y, then the infant or fetus has a marker for SIDS or is assessed to be at increased risk for CC corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, then the infant or fetus has a marker for SIDS or is assessed to be at increased risk for CC corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if the amino acid at a position CC corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if the amino acid at a position CC corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if the amino acid at a position corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if the amino acid at a position corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if the amino acid at a position corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if corresponding to position 103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if the amino acid at a position corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8 is not Y/Y, or where if the amino acid at a position or fetus; a method for such and the position or fetus; and a method for corresponding to position 1103 in SEQ ID NO: 8

The invention relates to mutants of the ion channel proteins KCNQ1 (potassium voltage-gated channel, KQT-like subfamily, member 1; CC AEA78662), SCNSA (sodium channel, Voltage-gated, type V, alpha; AEA78664) CC AEA78662), SCNSA (sodium channel, voltage-gated, type V, alpha; AEA78664) CC and KCNH2 (potassium voltage-gated channel, subfamily H, member 2, also cc known as HERG; AEA78666), and to mutant KCNQ1, SCNSA and KCNH2 nucleic cc mutant nucleic acids of the invention; nucleic acid probes which cc selectively hybridize to a mutant KCNQ1, SCNSA or KCNH2 nucleic acid but cont to the corresponding wild-type polynucleotide; microarrays containing cc such probes; and antibodies immunospecific for mutant KCNQ1, SCNSA or KCNH2 proteins. The mutant proteins of the invention result from cc previously unknown mutations in the KCNQ1, SCNSA and KCNH2 genes and are cc proviously unknown mutations in the KCNQ1, SCNSA and KCNH2 genes and are cc proviously unknown mutations associated with diseases resulting in cc arrhythmias and/or sudden cardiac death (cardiac arrest) such as short QT syndrome, hong QT syndrome, Brugada syndrome and progressive conduction cd isease. The novel KCNQ1 mutations are associated with long QT syndrome; these mutations are R104W, R179stop, T220I, G400A, CE G446K, F532C, A735V, R878C, H886P, L917R, E1573K, Y1614stop, C1727R, CC W23321413307F, p335L+11659V, TG851 (a TG base insertion between codons CC associated with progressive conduction disease and long QT syndrome. While the coher novel SCNSA mutations 27 and 28-4810+7 ins GGG"). The other novel SCNSA mutations of exons 27 and 28-4810+7 ins GGG"). The mutant ion channel proteins, polynucleotides, antibodies and probes are useful for diagnosing short QT syndrome. Brugada syndrome, progressive conduction disease or long QT syndrome. They can be used to determine an individual's susceptibility to sudden cardiac death, or to determine whether this is the cause of death for a deceased individual. The proteins and polynucleotides are also useful in screening for compounds useful in treating the above-mentioned diseases. The present sequence represents the wild-type human SCN5A

The present sequence is that of the protein encoded by the human SCN5A gene. This gene is implicated in Romann-Ward syndrome, the autosomal dominant form of Long QT syndrome (LQTS). Novel mutations have been identified in the gene using single strand conformation polymorphism analysis. These result in the following amino acid alterations: D1114N, L1501V, delF1617, R1623L, E1784K and S1787N. Isolated human polypeptides comprising such a mutation (see AAB82240-45) are claimed. Knowledge of the mutations provides means for assessing a risk in a human subject for LQTS, for diagnosing a mutation which causes LQTS, and for screening for drugs useful in treating a human having a mutation in the SCN5A gene

Also CC claimed are a vector comprising the novel polynucleotide, a host cell CC which is differentially regulated in an animal subjected to pain and a CC kit to perform the method, an array, a method for identifying an agent that increases or decreases the expression of the polynucleotide sequence that is differentially expressed in neuronal tissue of a first animal CC subjected to pain, a method for identifying an agent CC expressed in an animal subjected to pain, a method for identifying a compound which regulates the expression of a polynucleotide sequence which is differentially expressed in an extend for identifying a compound which regulates the compound that regulates the activity of one or more of the polynucleotides, a method for producing a pharmaceutical composition, a cc method for identifying a compound useful in treating pain and a pharmaceutical composition comprising the one or more of polynucleotides or their antibodies. The polynucleotide or the compound that compound is a pharmaceutical composition comprising the one or more considered in an animal segmental nerve injury (Chung), chronic constriction considered in a sequence presented is a human protein (shown in Table 2 of the specification, but was obtained in electronic form directly from WIPO at figure of the polynucleotide or the printed consideration of the polynucleotide of the polynucleotide of the polynucleotide of the printed consideration of the polynucleotide of the printed consideration of the polynucleotide of the printed consideration of the printed consideration of the printed consideration of the printed consider composition Ø medicament comprising icament for two or more isolated polypeptides, treating pain in an animal.

Claim 1; Page; 1017pp; English.

The invention discloses a composition comprising two or more isolated rat CC or human polynucleotides or a polynucleotide which represents a fragment, CC delimed are a vector comprising the novel polynucleotide, a host cell CC claimed are a vector comprising the novel polynucleotide, a host cell CC comprising the vector, a method for identifying a nucleotide sequence kit to perform the method, an array, a method for identifying an agent that is differentially regulated in an animal subjected to pain and a CC that increases or decreases the expression of the polynucleotide sequence that is differentially expressed in neuronal tissue of a first animal CC subjected to pain, a method for identifying an agent CC expressed in an animal subjected to pain, a method for identifying a compound which regulates the expression of a polynucleotide sequence which is differentially CC expressed in an animal subjected to pain, a method for identifying a CC compound that regulates the activity of one or more of the polynucleotides, a method for producing a pharmaceutical composition, a CC method for identifying a compound or small molecule that regulates the activity in an animal of one or more of the polynucleotides given in the polynucleotide or their antibodies. The polynucleotide or the reating compound useful in treating pain and a pharmaceutical composition comprising the one or more of polypeptides or their antibodies. The polynucleotide or the compound that composition of the polynucleotide or the compound that composition is differentially expressed during pain. Note: The sequence presented is a human protein (shown in Table 2 of the specification, but was obtained in electronic form directly from WIPO at figure pains. In the specification, but was obtained in electronic form directly from WIPO at figure pains. The mutant is encoded by an SCNSA mutant gene in which a G/A mutation alters codon 1787 from AGT to AAT. Mutations of the SCNSA gene are implicated in Romano-Ward syndrome, the autosomal dominant form of Long QT syndrome (LQTS). Mutations newly discovered in the SCNSA gene lead to the following amino acid alterations in the encoded protein: D1114N, L1501V, delF1617, R1623L, E1784K and S1787N. Knowledge of the mutations provides means for assessing a risk in a human subject for LQTS, for diagnosing a mutation which causes LQTS, and for screening for drugs useful in treating a human having a mutation in the SCNSA gene. Note: The present sequence is not shown in the specification but is derived from the KVLQT-1 sequence given in the Sequence Listing (see AAB882220)

The mutant is encoded by an SCN5A mutant gene in which a C/G mutation alters codon 1501 from CTG to GTG. Mutations of the SCN5A gene are implicated in Romano-Ward syndrome, the autosomal dominant form of Long QT syndrome (LQTS). Mutations newly discovered in the SCN5A gene lead to the following amino acid alterations in the encoded protein: D1114N, L1501V, dalF1617, R1623L, E1784K and S1781V. Knowledge of the mutations provides means for assessing a risk in a human subject for LQTS, for diagnosing a mutation which causes LQTS, and for screening for drugs useful in treating a human having a mutation in the SCN5A gene. Note: The present sequence is not shown in the specification but is derived from the KVLQT-1 sequence given in the Sequence Listing (see

The present sequence is that of the claimed E1784K mutant of the human SCN5A protein. The mutant is encoded by an SCN5A mutant gene in which a G/A mutation alters codon 1784 from GAG to AAG. Mutations of the SCN5A gene are implicated in Romano-Ward syndrome, the autosomal dominant form of Long QT syndrome (LQTS). Mutations newly discovered in the SCN5A gene lead to the following amino acid alterations in the encoded protein: D114AV, L1501V, delF1647, R1623L, E1784K and S1787N. Knowledge of the mutations provides means for assessing a risk in a human subject for LQTS, for diagnosing a mutation which causes LQTS, and for screening for drugs useful in treating a human having a mutation in the SCN5A gene. Note: The present sequence is not shown in the specification but is derived from the KVLQT-1 sequence given in the Sequence Listing (see

The present sequence is that of the claimed D1114N mutant of the human SCNSA protein. The mutant is encoded by an SCNSA mutation sters codon 1114 from GAC to AAC. Mutations of the SCNSA gene are implicated in Romano-Ward syndrome, the autosomal dominant form of Long QT syndrome (LQTS). Mutations newly discovered in the SCNSA gene lead to the following amino acid alterations in the encoded protein: D1114N, L1501V, delF1617, R1623L, E1784K and S1787N. Knowledge of the mutations provides means for assessing a risk in a human subject for LQTS, for diagnosing a mutation which causes LQTS, and for screening for drugs useful in treating a human having a mutation in the SCNSA gene. Note: The present sequence is not shown in the specification but is derived from the KVLQT-1 sequence given in the Sequence Listing (see

The mutant is encoded by an SCMSA mutant gene in which a G/T mutation alters codon 1623 from CGA to CTA. Mutations of the SCMSA gene are implicated in Romano-Mard syndrome, the autosomal dominant form of Long QT syndrome (LQTS). Mutations newly discovered in the SCMSA gene lead to the following amino acid alterations in the encoded protein: D1114N, L1501V, delF1617, R1623L, B1784K and S1787N. Knowledge of the mutations provides means for assessing a risk in a human subject for LQTS, for diagnosing a mutation which causes LQTS, and for screening for drugs useful in treating a human having a mutation in the SCMSA gene. Note: The present sequence is not shown in the specification but is derived from the KVLQT-1 sequence given in the Sequence Listing (see

                           This protein comprises the human hH1 voltage-regulated sodium channel CC protein that can be used in a movel system for enhancing cardiac dignal sensing by cardiac pacemakers through genetic treatment. A claimed system CC for delivering genetic material (GM) comprises a reservoir containing GM CC and a device for delivering it to myocardial cells (MC) at a specific CC location. The GM increases the amplitude of the cardiac signal, improving the signal-to-noise (S/N) ratio that is sensed by the electrode of a CC pacemaker. Also claimed are: (1) an implantable delivery system CC channels in MC and system for delivering this through a catheter, the tip CC of which engages MC at the chosen location, and (2) a system similar to CC (1) comprising a pacing electrode on an inner wall of the heart, close to the site where the SGM is delivered. The system is used for delivery of an ion-channel GM which causes depolarisation of atrial and ventricular MC cand improves the sensing of cardiac signals by the pacemaker and the S/N ratio of atrial P-waves. The preferred GM comprises DNA (see AAV09029) or CC RNA encoding hH1
